

Girl Scouts has long valued being a partner in education to families, schools and nonprofit program providers. Below are some resources we are offering the community as families adapt to online learning, share workspaces, and find ways to engage their children during this time. We invite you to share these experiences with your families – they are open to everyone! Activities are updated weekly at gsnetx.org/GSatHome.

Virtual Field Trip – STEM Center of Excellence – Be a Citizen Scientist

Produced by DiscoveryEd in conjunction with Girl Scouts, kids will have a fun time unleashing their inner scientist as they learn to be citizen scientists right from their own neighborhoods or backyards. The video was produced at The Girl Scouts STEM Center of Excellence in Dallas and include at-home activities for families and resources for educators. Girlsleadstem.com/virtual-field-trip

Facebook events

Every day at 10 a.m.: Girl Scouts Live! on Facebook with hands-on activities for all-ages

Tuesdays: Girl Scout Leadership Institute Career Exploration: High school aged girls won't want to miss this. Each week will highlight a different professional field with videos from area volunteers.

Wednesdays: Ask the Expert: Girls of all ages can tune in to meet a different expert each week. Our guest experts will lead everyone through a short activity to introduce their area of expertise and then answer any questions you have!

Thursdays: Service Project activity videos: Learn how to complete a simple project to help make the world a better place. Each project is designed to utilize materials you already have at home so you can continue giving back while social distancing.

Fridays: Strong Girls: End your week strong with our Strong Girls series. Each week, we will introduce a curated playlist of YouTube videos that are age-appropriate and fun ways to stay physically healthy at home.

This programming will be live on Facebook - facebook.com/gsnetx, but will be available on our website and YouTube account the next week. Questions? Email programs@gsnetx.org.

Raising Awesome Girls & Para Su Familia – Resources for Families

Today's world is very much uncharted territory, and we're all learning as we go, in many ways. Girl Scouts USA created a growing collection of thoughtful articles on its blog, Raising Awesome Girls, to offer guidance on navigating these new waters with your Girl Scout. This information is also available in Spanish through the Para Su Familia blog. You are welcome to share these resources within your network, include in your e-newsletters or share on your social channels. (Articles by Girl Scouts of the USA.)
